Come in, Stranger!

In the early days a locked cabin or ranch house was unheard of in the West. If the owner was absent the caller—whether neighbor or stranger—was free to enter, cook a meal and make himself at home.

The one unforgivable breach of etiquette on the part of the guest was to leave his dishes unwashed!

That pioneer spirit of hospitality is still characteristic of Montanans. We KNOW we have the finest country in the world and we want you to see it . . . to share it with us. We want you to enjoy the thousands of miles of mountains and virgin forest lands, forming America's greatest and most varied playground. For your pleasure there are hundreds of trout streams, a far-flung labyrinth of saddle trails, towering mountain ranges, broad prairies, marvelous scenery, with a network of fine, modern highways to take you to and through it all.

The latchstring is out . . . Montana welcomes you. May your stay within our borders be pleasant and memorable.
